Hubby gets in at six in the morning. Wifie sees him taking his shoes off. Thinking he is dressing, she dashes down and prepares breakfast. Hubby finds it difficult to keep awake, while Wifie reads the morning papers.

Flies bother her considerably and when she reads they are the cause of sleeping sickness, she starts swatting them. The butler assists and when told to get some real fly swatters, he cuts liberal portions from the screen, attaching such to golf sticks.

Flies enter in huge swarms as a result. Hubby falls asleep in his seat. Wifie lumps a flock of the insects on his map and instantly dashes to him. Repeated shakings fail to arouse him. With the aid of the butler they walk him to the doctor.

Hubby crawls into a baby carriage for a little repose. The carriage runs down hill. Wifie, docky and the butler pursue. Through a maze of traffic the carriage goes. It stops momentarily on the edge of a high cliff. To their horror, it plunges over. Hubby lands on a tent and falls through to a comfortable bed.

Wifie's doctor informs her that hubby is not sick but sleepy, having been out with him all night. She wraps her mighty mitt against his chin, putting him to sleep for fair.
